Introduzione

Introduction

Indossare un abito significa scegliere.

Scegliere un taglio specifico, selezionare un colore amato, adottare o meno un accessorio luminoso. Il risultato, nella sua complessità o semplicità, sarà sempre la sintesi di un'esigenza: quella che le decisioni prese aderiscano alla personalità di ognuno e al proprio stile.

Se è vero che "lo stile è l'abito dei pensieri", e i pensieri sono la forma astratta della propria essenza, l'abitare stesso diventa scegliere.

Scegliere l'ambiente in cui trasporre, tramite materiali e finiture, una parte di noi stessi, dando vita a scenari disparati, ma affini a una cultura senza tempo.

I desideri prendono così forma nell'abito che indosso così come nel luogo in cui abito.

Wearing a habit implies making a choice.

You must choose a specific style, pick one of your favourite colours, decide whether you want to wear a shiny accessory with it. And the result, no matter how complex or simple, will always come from an impulse: the intimate need for decisions to reflect your own personality and style.

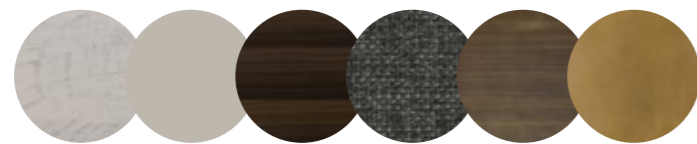

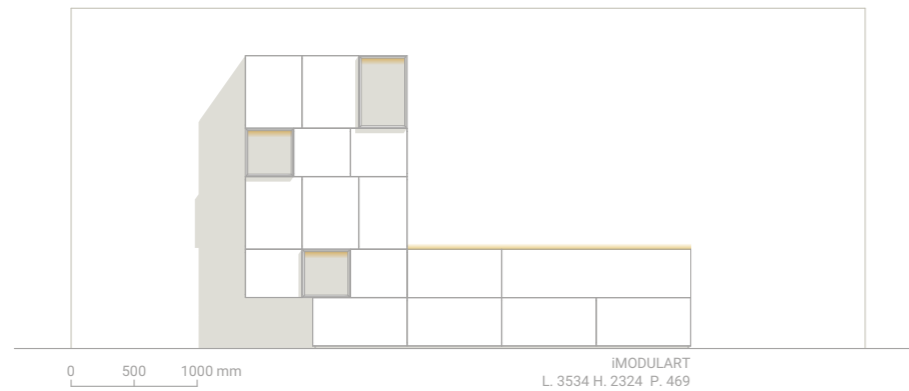

If the statement "Style is the outer habit of thought" is true, and if thoughts are the abstract form of a person's essence, living itself becomes synonymous with choosing.

Choosing a setting which, by using materials and finishes, represents part of you and creates varied scenarios that reflect timeless culture.

Your desires take shape in the habit you wear, just like in the place you inhabit.
